RMU also ensure that all records are managed to ensure long-term data persistence and preservation. The Records Management Unit (RMU) within Enterprise Library 5.0 facilitates the creation and tracking of records. Records can be tracked by type and by location. Further records can be linked to a previous record. For example, the Office location of an email can be followed to its destination. Any records that are links to other records are called links. Ranges of Record Tracking Enterprise Library records tracking can be grouped into three kinds: Tracked Records: These are records that have information relevant to their own definition. For example, when you create a Folder that contains Items, the information is going to be tracked by the Folder and the Item. Tracked Link Records: Link records enable the tracking of information with other records. Link Records enable you to track any information related to the purpose of your application. Links can be created with a source record and any number of target records. Referenced Records: These are records that do not have their own definition. These records link or reference other records. For example, when you delete a record, the deletion is going to be recorded and any references to that record are going to be validated to ensure that any data that depend on it does not change. Enterprise Library Data Persistence Enterprise Library brings support for both in-
